Heart Project

Written by Maryjo Morgan

Valentine's Day is extra sweet in Loveland every year not only because of our name, but because the Thompson Valley Rotary Club's annual Heart Project gives anyone the chance to publicly display their love. Red Hearts proclaiming the purchaser's love decorate street light poles around the city. Members of Thompson Valley High School Honor Society and Thompson Valley Rotary Club labor together painting the hearts. Profits are donated to scholarships for local youth.

McCreey House: Lady of Yore

Written by Gerri Gerling

There is a gracious lady of enduring beauty located at 746 North Washington Avenue in Loveland. Refined, yet relaxed in manner, she has her own unique style. Through her elevated eyebrow windows she has watched Loveland grow and change for over a century. Conceived in the mind of W.H. McCreery, Loveland's first United Presbyterian minister and Superintendent of Larimer County Schools, the McCreery House was built in 1890. Distinct in character and possessing unique features, including a three sided verandah, a French-style mansard roof, a doorbell operated by turning a key in the bell, and a mosaic tiled entry floor with Mr. McCreery's initials, WHM, inset, she is truly a well bred and cultured matron.

Drawn to Loveland by the warmth of the Sweetheart City's residents; Doug and Linda Stotz felt the McCreery House was a serendipitous find when they moved from Boulder, Colorado and purchased the house in 1999. Finding Loveland to be a caring and cultured town, they felt at home and enjoyed the lifestyle that living in Loveland afforded their family.

A priority for Linda Stotz was acquiring National, State, and Local Historical Certification, which the house now holds. Adding to the charm of the house are the chicken coop, built in 1905, and a two-story carriage house.

Entering the gardens one is transported back in time. Graceful old trees appear as sentinels over the arched arbor and gazebo in the tranquil environment. The poet, Louise Driscoll, expressed it best when she wrote, "My garden is a pleasant place of moon glory and wind grace. O friend, wherever you may be, will you not come to visit me"? An abundance of flowers and shrubs bring texture and color to the garden in the spring and summer.

Operating the house as a venue for weddings, receptions, and other special events is a labor of love for Linda Stotz. Experiencing first-hand the joy of doing what she loves, in the city of love, in a place she cherishes, brings a sense of fulfillment and harmony to her.
